ICY ROAD CONDITIONS and a curve promoted this Pontiac vs. Pontiac bout just north of Akeley on Route 62 at 6:55 a.m. Saturday. Ralph Webster, of Buffalo, N.Y., was operating the southbound car at the right when it went into a skid and collided nearly head-on with the northwardly moving vehicle operated by C. W. Dolloff, 204 Canton st., Warren. The New York State couple were treated for chest injuries and released, while the Warren man suffered a laceration of the lip. Damage to the autos was estimated at $650.

HOME AND HEALTHY is baby Mark Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. McIntyre, 910 Stone ave., Warren.

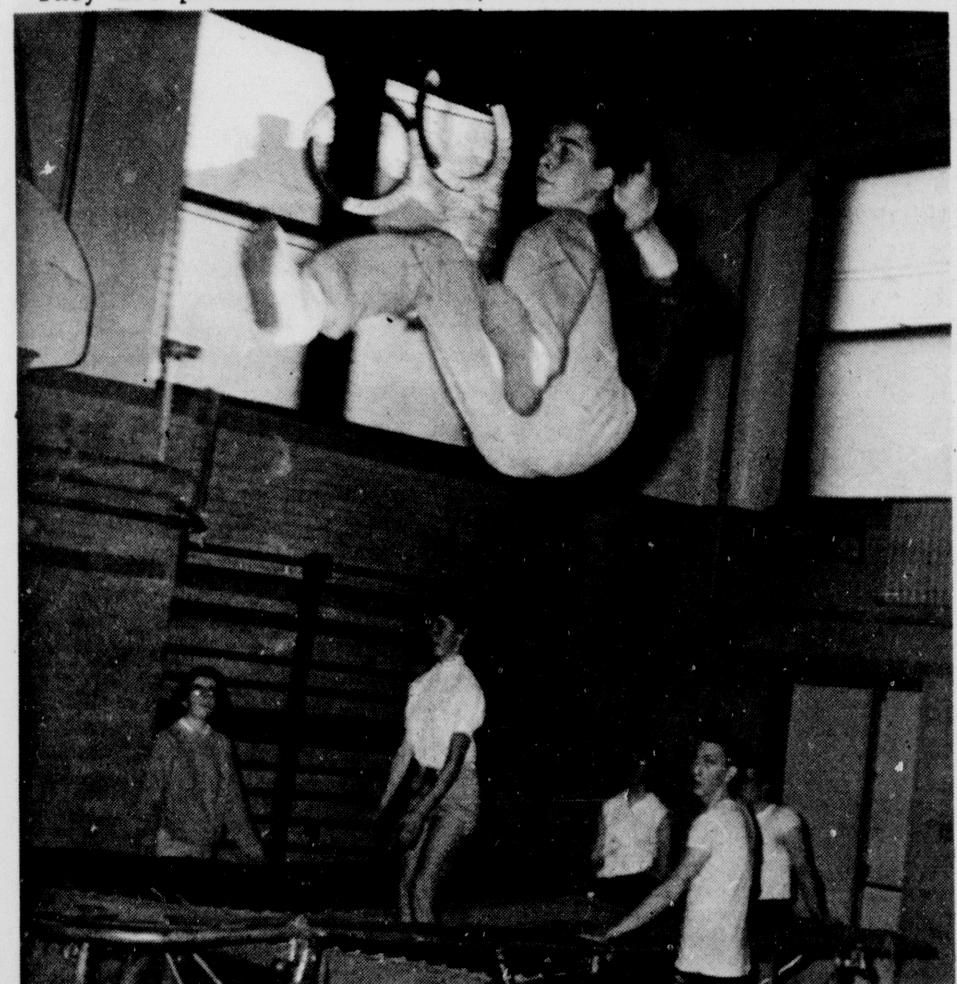

The child, on the day following birth March 17, required an exchange transfusion which meant all its blood had to be removed and replaced with new blood from the Red Cross Blood Bank.

This transfusion, normally accomplished only in the larger hospitals, was successfully conducted in Warren through the cooperation of the Red Cross, State Police, Warren General Hospital and the medical staff.

To perform the transfusion a special additive was needed for the blood. Upon learning it was available in Corry, arrangements were made immediately and the additive was rushed here by Warren and Corry State Police.

Little Mark, who weighed in at seven pounds, one ounce, was discharged from the hospital last Sunday.

guaranteed!

The fact that we are the only telephone company in the areas we serve does not guarantee us a satisfactory level of earnings.

It is up to us:

To operate economically

To insure an adequate return on the money the public invests in the business

To help contribute to a healthy economy by our local purchases and payroll

To have telephone facilities available to meet your community's growth

To obtain and keep good employees

To develop new markets and products to meet changing customer needs

And, most important of all, it is up to us to see that you and your fellow citizens in Pennsylvania continue to have good telephone service.

No one guarantees any of these things.

They will come only as a result of sound management, good organization and equipment—together with earnings that enable us to help meet expansion requirements and to pay a reasonable dividend.

Firemen's Case Deserves Full Scale Attention

Our knowledge of the Paul A. Drescher case is limited to a letter which we printed, a letter read at council, and the comments made at the council table. We are not in a position to judge the charges or the man and wouldn't do so if we could. That is for the council and maybe the civil service commission. But as an editor we would like to see all the linen shaking in the open breeze so that the public may inspect it. If the charges made by Fireman Drescher against the fire department are true some corrective action is in order. If they are not true, Fireman Drescher should be shown the door.

He says the fire department does not have competitive examinations for advancement, that there is no training program except for a chosen few, and that pay is not based on seniority. He says he has been denied seniority advantages, has been subjected to abuse, and that he has been prejudiced against.

It has been reported that the civil service commission says it never received an appeal from Fireman Drescher who claims the commission has never given him a hearing. There apparently was a letter from Fireman Drescher to the commission, but it was received in advance of a resolution from borough council.

At its January, 1956 meeting, the Warren borough council voted to support the suspension of Fireman Drescher for two weeks without pay. He was accused of conduct unbecoming a fireman, including abusive language, and threats directed at another fireman.

At this meeting the public safety committee explained that the civil service commission would consider the resolution and that the fireman would have ten days in which to appeal. It also was reported that he already had written a letter as a counter charge, "but legally such an action can not be taken until after the civil service commission has received the resolution." The quotes are around the Observer's exact report of the meeting's proceedings and the statement made at that time.

Technically, Fireman Drescher cannot now appeal the action by council and the subsequent action by the commission because the ten days have passed. At least that is the way the law has been defined by the borough committee and the commission. There may be other documents produced by the parties involved to change this situation, but unless there are we now stand on a technicality.

And that is not enough for us. Perhaps Fireman Drescher has no right under the law to an appeal of his suspension. But the public certainly has a right to know if the statements he makes relative to the operation of our fire department are born in anger or in truth.

They involve a very vital part of the borough's public safety system, and if they are true we should be taking appropriate action. Someone is wrong, and if it is the borough we do not have the $91,810 worth of fire protection we are supposed to be receiving annually.

There is little doubt that the most will be made of this controversy by defense attorneys in the Carver Hotel case in which relatives of a man who lost his life in the blaze will seek compensation. The defense may use, if the court allows, an undemanded ineffective fire department as a support.

On this we do have an opinion based on personal experience. We were at the fire, and we were there early, with camera in hand. The firemen did a valiant job of saving an entire block and maybe Warren's business center from a holocaust which was moving rapidly through hallways, floors, and walls of aged, dried kindling.

Good results we have seen many times. But if Fireman Drescher's charges are correct we are not building well for tomorrow and the protection we will need when the younger men take over. The community would rest easier if he were proved wrong, and certainly will support the proper action if he is proved right.

HEALTHY LIBRARY WEEK

There is a slight chance that something might develop from Warren's observance of Library Week that could effect improvements in this service within the community's borders and possibly overflow into the nearby area. If so, mark it down to a little healthy discussion and even a mite of heat and vinegar.

We have noticed a tendency in some quarters of library thinking in our town and county to quote from what might be called context. When an editor has written a few dozen articles on a subject over a period of two decades perhaps it might be described as a little shortsighted to judge his knowledge and complete opinion on a few small paragraphs of fire he has lit to keep the stodgies burning.

We are happy to hear talk about regional library service. This has been a subject so radical that no one has dared mention it for fear of shaking the dust from many slumbering shellbacks who have been sitting on the library lid for years. To talk of a county library service, backed by most county organizations who expressed a willingness to campaign for book funds, and experimentally financed by an opening budget of $15,000 (of which $4,000 would come from the state) has been heretical enough.

The regional idea is "tomorrow", and tomorrow in Pennsylvania means after a survey and the long route through the state legislature. Meanwhile, the counties can be building the framework which later can be blended nicely into the whole.

Large amounts of money do not assure quality unless they are efficiently used. But efficient help and expanded services usually do require additional funds. At least this is the case with Warren where the professional librarians for many years have reported annually that they could do better with less limited finances.

We also are in receipt of a letter from the Warren library. It asks us to be a friend by contributing money. Apparently the budgeted funds are not sufficient.

It is good to see young minds stirred into thought about our vital library problems. But those who sincerely want improvements should have no quarrel. Theirs should be a constructive and open-minded approach, reached through unheated disagreement on contributing steps, and resulting in a common goal . . . a fully enlightened citizenry.

YOU SHOULD HAVE GONE

Those who missed the Health Show held in Beaty cafeteria last week missed a very educational and fascinating circle of attractions. Actual slides used to determine if a tissue is cancerous were to be seen. The method was clearly described and the equipment used for this work at the Warren General hospital was on display.

The Warren State hospital had three machines in its booth which should have interested all visitors. All of us have heard of shock treatments, but they are something unrelated to us, and a vague nightmare which happens to others. Two shock machines were in the booth and their operation was explained.

Also in this booth was a machine which reads your brain like a cardiograph reads your heart. Lines on a graph tell if your brain is organically sick. A very useful machine which saves much mistreatment of patients whose illness may be mental, but requiring organic treatment rather than psychiatric.

Invalid equipment was on display, including a small crane with which a person not very strong could lift another with ease. And there were many informative photograph stories telling what the various organizations do, and how the employes of such institutions as the Warren State hospital accomplish their assignments.

But there was one mystery we did not solve. From the moment we opened the outside door until we closed it our nostrils were assailed by the same odor that is found in a hospital or a doctor's office. But we saw no medicine, nor hospital menu. Perhaps we should have stuck our head into one of those diagnostic robots.

OUR INCOME TAX SIEVE: MOVIE, RADIO AND TELEVISION STARS CLEVERLY SKIRT TAXES

By Jack Steele
Scripps-Howard Staff Writer

WASHINGTON.--Some of the most spectacular and elaborate tax avoidance schemes have been concocted for movie, radio and TV big shots.

Star entertainers, along with their producers and directors, earn tremendous incomes. But with the help of ingenious tax lawyers -- and Congress -- many manage to avoid turning over most of their earnings to the government in taxes. And it's all within the law.

Congress had a direct hand in one Hollywood tax-avoidance case which many experts consider the most bizarre of all. This is the so-called Mayer case.

The late Louis B. Mayer for many years ran the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. He had a unique contract giving him 10 percent of the net profits from all MGM films -- and the contract was to continue in force if he quit or retired.

Mayer finally did retire in 1951, and agreed to give up his rights to future MGM profits for $2,275,000 in cash.

The Revenue Code provided that such lump-sum settlements were to be taxed as ordinary income. But a Washington tax lawyer managed to get Congress to amend the Code.

This Mayer provision -- as it was later tagged -- was entitled: "Taxability to Employee of Termination Payments." It provided that lump-sum settlements might be taxed as capital gains under these very special conditions:

1. If the taxpayer had been employed for at least 20 years.

2. If his contract had been in force 12 years.

3. If the contract would continue for at least five years.

These conditions were drawn up to fit just one taxpayer -- Mayer. They saved him nearly $2 million in taxes.

But other highly paid executives soon worked out contracts to fit their "termination payments" to the Mayer provision. So Congress closed the loophole in 1954, limiting this tax benefit to such contracts already in force.

Many movie and TV stars have been driven to tax-avoidance schemes by the high tax rates on their earnings.

Entertainers usually get their money in big lumps. And their success often is short-lived. A TV comedian may have only a year or two to make his wad before the public tires of his jokes. Without some tax-avoidance device, he winds up with nothing but scrapbooks and tax receipts.

Only rarely, as in the Mayer case, has Congress dared to pass special tax laws for them.

More often their lawyers seek and find "gimmicks" already in the Revenue Code which can be adapted to their needs. Frequently they discover these loopholes in the corporate tax laws.

Here are a few of the devices they have used in recent years:

COLLAPSIBLE CORPORATIONS:

Hollywood first began to take advantage of this corporate tax loophole in the early 1940s. Sam Goldwyn often is credited with its discovery.

The scheme was relatively simple. A separate corporation was set up to produce each movie. Stock was sold to the studio, the producer, director and sometimes to the stars. After the movie was completed -- but before any income was realized from it -- the company was dissolved and the assets, consisting of the film rights, distributed to the stockholders.

Since the company made no profits, it paid no taxes.

The owners then fixed a "fair market value" for their film, usually on the basis of a trial run in some big theater like Radio City Music Hall in New York. After deducting the cost of making the film from this value, they paid low capital gains taxes on the balance. Then they sold the film to distributors on a tax-free basis.

In 1950 President Truman appealed to Congress to close this "loophole," which also was being used by builders and other businessmen. Congress did so partly, by providing that such one-shot companies could not be collapsed for three years.

PACKAGE DEALS:

This tax-avoidance device was created especially for radio and TV. It also became a factor in the battle of the TV networks for top entertainment talent.

The best-known package deal was worked out by Jack Benny. It served as the test case which established the legality of this tax gimmick.

Prior to 1947 Benny turned out a complete comedy show for the American Tobacco Co. (Lucky Strike cigarettes) on the NBC network.

Then Benny and some of his associates set up a corporation, Amusement Enterprises, Inc., to produce the show. Benny owned 60 percent of the stock -- but was paid on the side for his personal services as star of the show.

Early in 1948 Benny let it be known that Amusement Enterprises -- his package -- was for sale. At the time William S. Paley, chairman of CBS, was trying to get some of NBC's top shows for his own network.

Each network offered $2,260,000 for the stock of Amusement Enterprises. But NBC, which apparently foresaw that the "package deal" would open the way for raids on its talent, quibbled over the tax aspects of the deal. Paley, on the other hand, grabbed it.

As a result, the Benny show moved from NBC to CBS.

Benny and his associates claimed their $2,260,000 as a capital gain. The Revenue Service held that $2,054,000 was compensation for Benny's services and taxable as ordinary income.

But the Tax Court upheld Benny, ruling that the entire amount was a capital gain. The tax savings totaled well over $1 million.

And the package deal still works.

Only last October the Tax Court ruled favorably on a similar deal for Groucho Marx, involving his TV program, "You Bet Your Life." John B. Guedel, who also invented the singing commercial, dreamed up this show. He owned it in partnership with Groucho. In 1950 they offered it to the networks.

Both NBC and CBS, by another remarkable coincidence, bid $1 million for the partnership. This time NBC won, by offering more for the services of Groucho and Guedel, which were not included in the package.

The Revenue Service again challenged the deal, holding that $750,000 was payment for personal services. But the Tax Court ruled that Groucho and Guedel had to pay only capital gains taxes on the full $1 million.

DEFERRED COMPENSATION:

Recently many TV and radio stars have favored a do-it-yourself tax-cutting scheme.

Instead of drawing huge salaries for a year or two, they have induced the networks to give them long-term contracts. They thus spread their income over many years at lower tax rates -- say 50 percent instead of 90. In return, the stars agree to appear on no other networks.

Milton Berle signed one of the first of these "deferred compensation" contracts in 1951, with NBC reportedly agreeing to pay him $65,000 a year for 17 years.

Neither Berle nor Gleason has a live TV show this season. But they get paid whether they work or not.

Most top-flight TV and radio stars now have similar contracts to stretch their income over many years at lower tax rates.

And this device is not limited to the entertainment world. Many of the nation's big corporations have similar deferred-compensation deals with their top executives.

NEXT: Foreign tax havens.

ASIDES

POINTED BONUS

There is an extra bonus in it for Ford salesmen in some areas. They get an additional $25 if the car traded in is a Chevrolet.

NO DIFFERENCE

A federal judge has revealed that the Seneca Indians have no privileges that differ from the average citizen when it comes to land rights, deeds, treaties, and other legal documents. If the government wants your property for the benefit of the many, you will give it up. The appeals, of course, will continue to higher levels.

INCENSED BY NONSENSE

A reader who is well informed on post office procedures and quite qualified to express an opinion on its problems was so incensed by what he describes as a canned editorial in the local daily on March 19, in which the postmaster general was blasted for his attempt to put some logic, reason, and fairness in the postal rates, that he has jotted down some thoughts for our use and your consideration.

He says that tears are brought to his eyes by the heavy extra expense business must bear when postage rates are raised. And that he is aroused to indignation over the extra taxes states and municipalities will have to impose to cover their increased postage expenses. These bits of illogic, found in the T-M editorial, he says, were exposed by Senator Neuberger in his presentation of the postal bill with one simple, devastating question, "Who is footing the postal deficit now?"

The answer, says our reader, is equally simple. You are!

He also notes that the Observer and the Times Mirror are helping, but that we enjoy special rates, and he rightly assumes that the Observer is willing to have them adjusted to a more realistic basis and to pay our just share.

He adds the following:

"But Big Business is enjoying a subsidy at your expense . . . of about 1/2 billion dollars a year. Big publishers, especially, such as Time & Life, Curtis Publishing Co. (Saturday Evening Post etc.) and Readers Digest, are subsidized to the tune of $250 million a year.

"Where the ghost-writer of the T-M editorial got the fantastic 300% which he (or she) claims magazine rates will be raised is beyond our ken. The bill proposes 15% increase a year for 4 years which, according to our comptometer adds up to 60%, quite a ways from 300%.

"In the case of Readers Digest for instance this would mean an increase of 6/10 of a cent per copy. Think that would break them?

"We believe in careful analysis and rationalization of any editorial material before publication. We also subscribe to the old adage about throwing stones when you live in a glass house."

EQUAL TIME

Television stations which have been editorially lambasting the proposals to give pay tv a trial may be forced to give equal air time to the opposition. The use of the limited number of channels is granted with the understanding that they will not be misused for slanted editorializing and other lop-sided pressure efforts. Which may make it necessary for "free" tv to give its threatening opposition equal plugging time.

California May Upset The 1960 GOP Plans

By Doris Fleeson

SACRAMENTO, CALIF. -- Early soundings of public opinion show Representative Claire Engle, Democrat, with surprising strength against his practically certain Republican opposition, Governor Goodwin Knight, for the U. S. Senate. The word is surprising because Engle is making his first statewide race and Knight has spent an extremely active decade in state politics, as Governor for five years and Lieutenant Governor before that. In some soundings Engle even leads by a slight margin, though they realize also his greatest problem, which is that so many voters say they do not know him personally.

Engle will, however, have some advantage over Knight. The liberal Congressman is in complete rapport with the strong Democrat at the head of the ticket, Attorney General Pat Brown. They will work together and be in a position to capitalize on the Democratic trend so apparent as of now in the nation.

No such sympathy, personal or political, exists between Knight and Senator William F. Knowland, now formally in the race for Governor. Knight felt that he could have been re-elected Governor and he was deeply unhappy when pressures from party leaders and warnings he would not be financed in that effort forced him to switch to the Senate race.

Knight is morosely certain also that Knowland is batting on a sticky wicket with the right-to-work issue to which the Senator maintains his commitment. Knight is on record with a promise as Governor to veto such legislation. He hopes to keep the substantial labor support he thus gained by sticking to that position.

Time was when Californians expected and indeed seemed to prefer rugged individualism in their politics. But their unique cross-filing system has been badly battered and is on its way out. Since Democrats hold the advantage in party registration, this is to their interest generally.

The recession will sharpen the party aspect of all the fall elections, a trend Congressional Democrats are trying to harden by means of their own program to combat it. Since there were 449,000 unemployed Californians last month, more unemployed than at any time in the last eight years, the recession seems certain to be a factor here.

The state's phenomenal growth is again shown in the fact that even that large number constitutes only 7.7 per cent of the labor force.

The personal ambitions of the leading California politicians also heat up the contests here. Vice President Nixon, faced with a choice between possible loss of the state to Democrats and possible strengthening of a Presidential rival, Senator Knowland, elected the second hazard. It is a decision the political trade thought wise, as he would certainly be weakened in the nominating convention and the election of 1960 if his state is in the hands of the opposition.

On the Democratic side it is beginning to dawn on party liberals that Attorney General Brown, if elected, will give them an alternative to Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, whose liberalism they distrust. Senator Kennedy is paving the way for a Catholic on the national ticket with a frank, far-reaching campaign. Brown, also a Catholic, was recently asked if he thought a Californian might be on a national ticket in 1960. His jovial answer: "Just say I smiled modestly."

REZONING FOURTH AVENUE from Hickory to Market to allow professional and business offices in that area as a newly created Residential Four district was given a hearing last night, with six councilmen, the borough manager, and Solicitor Harper present. About twelve visitors attended to express their views.

Those in favor of the change spoke of the shortage of suitable office space and the greater flexibility it would provide them in the use of their property.

The opposition deplored the failure to improve present business property, suggesting it would become even less desirable if not used, and mentioned the housing shortage. It was suggested that more land for the buildings and restricted height might make the ordinance more acceptable.

Council will act on the proposal at the April meeting.

YOUNGSVILLE CITIZENS responded to a community survey this week by indicating that Community Recreation is the most needed improvement. The questionnaire, circulated last week to determine projects for the Community Development Contest, requested residents to decide most urgent needs from among these major groupings: Community Recreation, Municipal Services & Facilities, Protection of Life & Property, and Industrial Development. The groupings, in that order, received 111, 57, 28, and 21 votes. A total of 69 questionnaires indicated no group choice and selected individual projects "across the board". In the community recreation bracket, community center and swimming pool were most popular.

Youngsville's Community Development Council will decide tonight whether to enter the 4th Annual Community Development sponsored by the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce. A major community-wide project must be pursued with the most progressive community receiving top prize of $1,500.

LIBRARY BOARD APPOINTED. The Warren County Commissioners have appointed a Warren County Library Board consisting of William Clinger, Warren; Ernest Oviatt, Irvine; Mrs. Dale Skinner, Lander; Mrs. Donald Dalrymple, North Warren; Mrs. Lawrence Stotz, Sheffield; James Marshall, Tiolioue; and Mrs. Sheridan Baker, Bear Lake.

It will be the duty of this body to consider all library matters in the county and advise the commissioners. One issue the board will review is the present library survey being made by the state.

THE AMBULANCE SERVICE BOARD of Warren Borough this week lifted the suspension of the ambulance license of Keith Nulph, operator of the Warren Ambulance Service.

The injunction against Nulph came March 12 and was based on the grounds that the operator had failed to notify Warren General Hospital, the central calling point, that his ambulances were not available for duty one day in January. Several other matters also prompted the board's move.

Attending this week's meeting were Ed MacKendrick, Joseph Williamson and Dr. William Walters, of the ambulance board; George Geracimos, borough secretary, Bernard Hetem, of the public safety committee; and S. Knox Harper, borough solicitor. Mr. and Mrs. Nulph were present with their attorney, C. Henry Nicholson.

CONCESSIONS at two state parks, Chapman Dam in Warren County and Hills Creek in Tioga County, have been designated for public bidding by the Department of Forests and Waters. Leases are to be for a one year period, subject to optional renewal up to a total of three years.

Concession services have not been offered in either park previously. Locally more information can be received at the Office of the District Forester.

FOUR DIVORCES were granted in Warren County court Tuesday in the cases of Mae E. Laird vs. Taylor W. Laird, Donna L. Carmany vs. Ray M. Carmany, Anthony W. Cosmano vs. Carol Ann Cosmano, Elizabeth McMeans vs. Edison G. McMeans.

REGISTERED? For Warren County voters who must register before Monday, March 31, the court house office will be open until 9 p. m. Friday, 5 p. m. Saturday, and 9 p. m. Monday. Field registrations will be conducted in Sugar Grove Friday and Columbus on Saturday.

As of Wednesday 62 Republicans, 127 Democrats and 6 Non-Partisans had registered since the opening December 1 of last year. A total of 103 changed from Republican to Democrat, 14 changed from D to R and five Non-Partisans turned Republican.

Total of registered voters: Republican -- 12,394; Democrats -- 5,893; and Non-Partisan -- 320; total -- 18,731.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD Melvin Roach, 407-1/2 Water st., suffered shock and was shaken up a bit early last Thursday afternoon when he ran from behind a parked car and was struck by an auto driven by Lewis L. Jones, 128 Biddle st. The accident occurred near 4 Second ave.

RECKLESS DRIVING was the charge made against Sheila Carter, 211 Poplar st., when she backed out of a diagonal parking space on Market st. at 8:48 p. m. last Thursday and hit the rear end of a passing vehicle operated by Gary D. Hall, of East Hickory. Over $200 damage was caused.

WHEN Victor Spattifor, 203 Alexander st., stopped to let a passenger out on Pennsylvania ave. at 3:58 p. m. Friday he was struck in the rear by a truck operated by Harold Cooper, 918 Fourth ave. The truck escaped any marks, but the Spattifor car was dented $125 worth.

WITH PARKED CARS blocking her view, Theresa H. Cooper, 918 Fourth ave., pulled around into the path of an oncoming auto driven by Fred Baldensperger, 17 Maple st., causing a mishap at Park and North streets at 10:09 a. m. Saturday.

Approximately $400 damage was caused.

THREE SHEFFIELD BOYS were seriously injured about 11:30 Sunday night when the pick-up truck in which they were riding in the rear of went out of control four miles west of Clarendon on Route 6 and crashed over a 35-foot embankment. Four other Sheffield lads in the truck, including driver Stanley Straziser, Jr., 16, received treatment for minor injuries.

The more seriously injured were Gerald Moore, 14, Frank Italiano, 13, and James Kasaback, 16. Other passengers were Jack Barner, 16, Robert Griffith, 15, and John Cochran, 15.

Damage to the truck was estimated at $1200.

State Police from the Warren barracks are investigating the incident.

STATE POLICE and the Sheriff's Department are continuing their search of the armed bandit who held up a Jamestown, N. Y., supermarket of about $600 last Friday night while driving an auto stolen earlier in Warren, and then found himself another get-away car in Sugar Grove.

The escapade started when a car belonging to John P. Wendell, West Third ave., Warren, was stolen about 3:30 p. m. Mrs. Wendell first believed the garage had taken the vehicle, but discovered by 6 o'clock it had been stolen.

At approximately 7 o'clock the Mother & Son supermarket in Jamestown was held up by a gunman. The Wendell car used for a get-away was found later abandoned in Sugar Grove where a man answering the description of the bandit saw Mrs. Lawrence Briggs waiting in her automobile outside her home at 7:15 p. m.

Carrying a rifle at the time, he ordered Mrs. Briggs into her home to get the keys which were not in the vehicle. While inside he talked briefly to the family and kicked over the telephone.

The bandit then drove off toward Lottsville about a mile out of Sugar Grove and abandoned this car, apparently because it was not operating properly. Mrs. Briggs' purse, containing $130, was laying in the seat of the auto.

Police describe the man as about 40 years, 170 pounds, six to 6-5 feet tall. He has dark hair, fair complexion, prominent cheek bones, and long nose. Witnesses said the man was a very neat dresser who used exceptionally good English.

IN DISCUSSION. Robert O. Wilder, president of Warren General Hospital, took part in a panel discussion earlier this week at the New England Hospital assembly in Boston. It is the largest regional conference in the country attended by hospital administrators, trustees, and department heads.

The panel on trustee-medical staff-administrator relationships was attended by Mr. Wilder.

Battling Of The Bulging Billboards

By Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON. -- Whether the $40 billion Federal highway system is to give roadside advertisers a captive audience for their billboards is a question the Senate must soon decide, with conservationists and garden club members all over America watching that vote as few Senate votes will be scrutinized this season.

While it may seem trivial in comparison to such issues as the control of outer space and a cure for the recession, this happens to be something that every voter understands. When he and his family go on a tour of scenic America on a highway paid for by his tax dollars and find themselves looking at signboards so shrewdly placed on the brow of a hill or on a curve that the eye cannot escape them, he will want to hold someone accountable.

This could prove a distinct embarrassment to the Democrats. Although the initiator of the anti-billboard measure is a Democrat, Senator Richard Neuberger of Oregon, most of the opposition has also come from the Democratic side. Senator Thomas Kuchel (R., Calif.), whose state puts a big premium on tourists, reversed his early position and joined Neuberger in sponsoring the bill offering states a premium for observing Federal standards limiting billboards.

By a narrow seven to six in the closed-door vote of the Senate Public Works Committee, the billboard provision was included in the bill expanding highway spending this year. Four Republicans, Senators Kuchel, Francis Case, Chapman Revercomb and Norris Cotton, and three Democrats, Senators Albert Gore, Frank Church and Neuberger, voted for the billboard amendment.

Of the six voting against it, four were Democrats, Senators Dennis D'Amato, W. Kerr Scott, Patrick V. McNamara and Robert S. Kerr, while only two Republicans, Senators Edward Martin and Roman L. Hruska, were in opposition.

Kerr, one of the two or three wealthiest men in the Senate, who speaks eloquently for the oil and gas interests of his native Oklahoma, is the leader of the opposition. A formidable adversary, Kerr in debate rarely bothers to argue his side of the case. Instead, he jumps on his opponents with the weapons of scorn and ridicule.

In the heated committee session, he referred bitingly to the "ass-etick" pretensions of the garden club ladies and those who presumed to speak for them. The oil companies are one of the two or three largest roadside advertisers. And since they get their medium -- the highway -- virtually free of charge, it is perhaps the cheapest form of advertising.

A onetime Democratic leader of the Senate, former Senator Scott W. Lucas of Illinois, represents the roadside business association which he says is made up of owners of motels and roadside stands. The powerful lobby, and it is one of the most potent in Washington, is that of the big outdoor advertisers.

The most effective argument against any prohibition is advanced by those who speak for organized labor, such as Senator McNamara of Michigan. The claim that billboards mean 50,000 jobs for sign painters and carpenters.

What may seem like an easy out is being offered by some Senators. The anti-billboard provision, it is argued, is a fine thing but it should not be hooked onto a highway measure where it does not belong.

But the sponsors are hopeful that the appeal is strong enough to carry the day. An estimated $5.2 billion is needed for acquiring land for Federal highways. Of this, some $260,000,000 can be spent by those states that conform to Federal standards on roadside signs for buying up land with the specific purpose of keeping off billboards. States that agree to live up to those standards will be paid an additional half of one percent of the Federal share of the interstate network.

Thus, if state Legislatures succumb to the billboard lobby, the embattled conservationists and garden club members can demand to know why they are rejecting this bonus.

Nevertheless, Kerr is not to be underrated. He recently suffered a sharp disappointment. When Senator Richard F. Byrd announced his intention of retiring, Kerr saw himself in the chairmanship of the powerful Senate Finance Committee. But Byrd changed his mind and will seek another term.

Accustomed to getting what he sets out for, Kerr will go down the line for the right of the billboard people to spread their wares across the land. And as between a lofty mountain and a big sign plugging somebody's super-duper gasoline, the latter may win out.

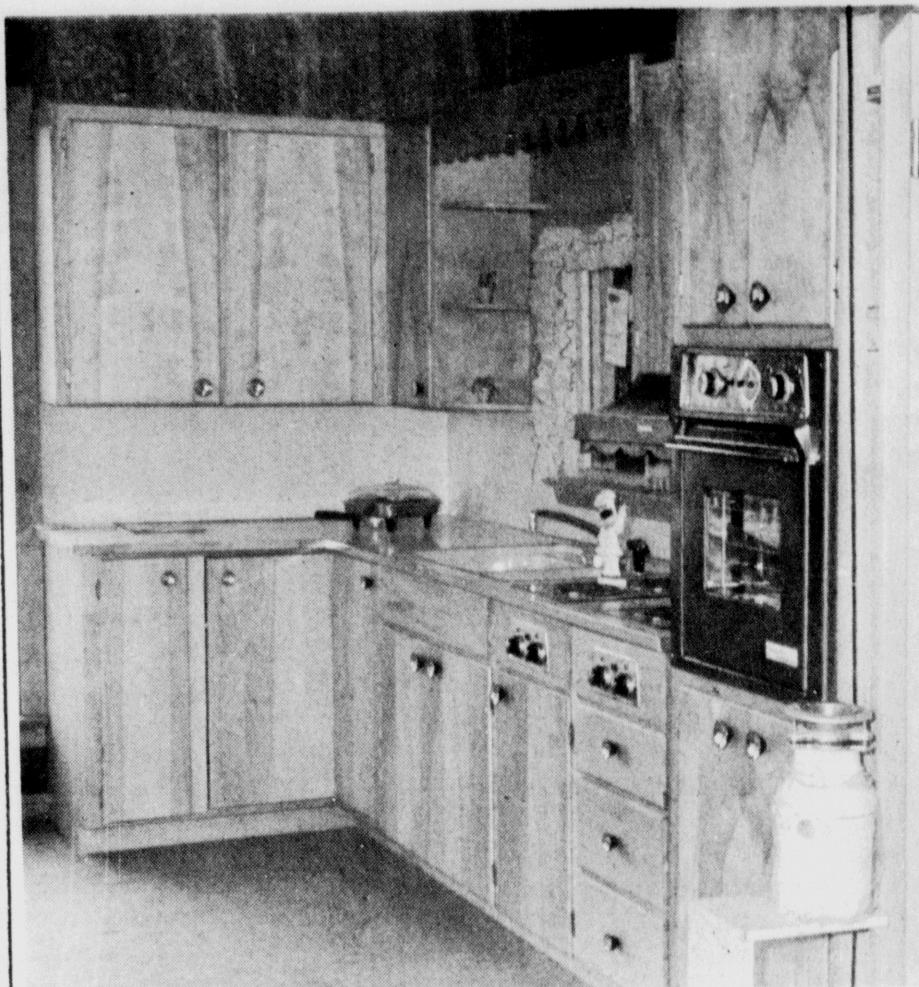

Exclamation point: a period that has blown its top.

Ever notice what rollicking fun most babies have in their tub? ... How they splash, gurgle, kick and coo? It's really not so amazing though when you stop to think that bathtime offers them such an awfully good chance to exercise free of hampering clothes. That is one reason infants should have a bath every single day ... Another good reason is that the bath rids baby of body wastes which are given off through the skin.

Baby's bath, in short, is an ideal spot for him to mix business and pleasure satisfactorily.

Editor
Warren Observer
Warren, Penna.

Dear Mr. Editor:

A current weekly magazine presents a Russian student and then his United States counterpart. This article is followed by a blast at United States Education in general. Next week the same magazine is going to present an article entitled "What's Wrong in the Teaching Profession". Since information on education is so free and easy to get, I thought some of your readers would be willing to answer some more questions. I have submitted only four. When we have received satisfactory answers, there could

* When the union met Tuesday night of this week officials announced it would endorse as candidates in the May primaries BlainMead, Republican, Warren, and Richard VanKirk, Democrat, Oil City, both running for state senator.

It was also disclosed at the meeting that a Workmen's Compensation meeting is being sponsored by the International Association of Machinists, District 65, at the American Legion Home in Warren at 10 a. m. this Saturday. The moderators will be Prof. Hal Reed and Prof. Stanley Hoesler, both of the Pennsylvania State University.

The meeting is open to the public.

1. Who says that the Russian student and system is the goal for our educational plans? Is the Russian system perfect or can we reap wheat from quack grass?

2. If our system of education is so decadent, why is our standard of living so high?

3. If we are neglecting the brighter student, why not enlarge our program to include all students, rather than neglect the top, the bottom, or the middle?

4. When will the citizens of the United States realize that actions speak louder than words?

Please let Mr. and Mrs. Public be reminded that the educational system has evolved from the demands and needs of the public. If the public of the U. S. really wants 80% of the homes to have T.V. - 80% of the homes have T. V. If the public really wants more and better educational experiences for the more capable student, the schools are ready to adjust to the demands, as in the past. We all work better when a challenge is presented. But remember, Mr. Public, do not criticize our educational system and then deny it the tools to meet the challenge.

As a teacher and parent, I will be interested to know the answer Mr. and Mrs. Public will give.

Very truly yours,

/s/ Leroy G. Peck

A VISIT WITH THE GRUBERS AT MAPLE SYRUP TIME

MAPLE SYRUP TIME and a beautiful spring day was the reason for our Sunday afternoon visit to the Don Gruber farm on the outskirts of Sugar Grove.

Upon approaching our destination this was the colorful scene. Just some of the 400 buckets (an average of four to a tree) that Don has out. They are what he collects approximately 2700 gallon of sap in during a season.

THIS CONTAINER is what is used to collect the running sap in during his season, which started February 27 and will run from five to six weeks.

He started out in the morning Sunday and his long day ended about 10 o'clock that night. It's Linda who is showing us the rig used in the operation.

THEN INTO THE PANS goes the sap. Don is caught by the camera here boiling down the sap in three pans which contain seven partitions. The fresh sap moves in from the end and pushes the further processed liquid forward as it thickens toward the maple syrup stage.

The sap ran a little thicker this year so Don is getting one gallon of syrup to each 30 gallon of sap boiled down. A lot of work for so little.

A HOT FIRE MUST be maintained to keep the sap boiling properly and necessitates a large supply of wood.

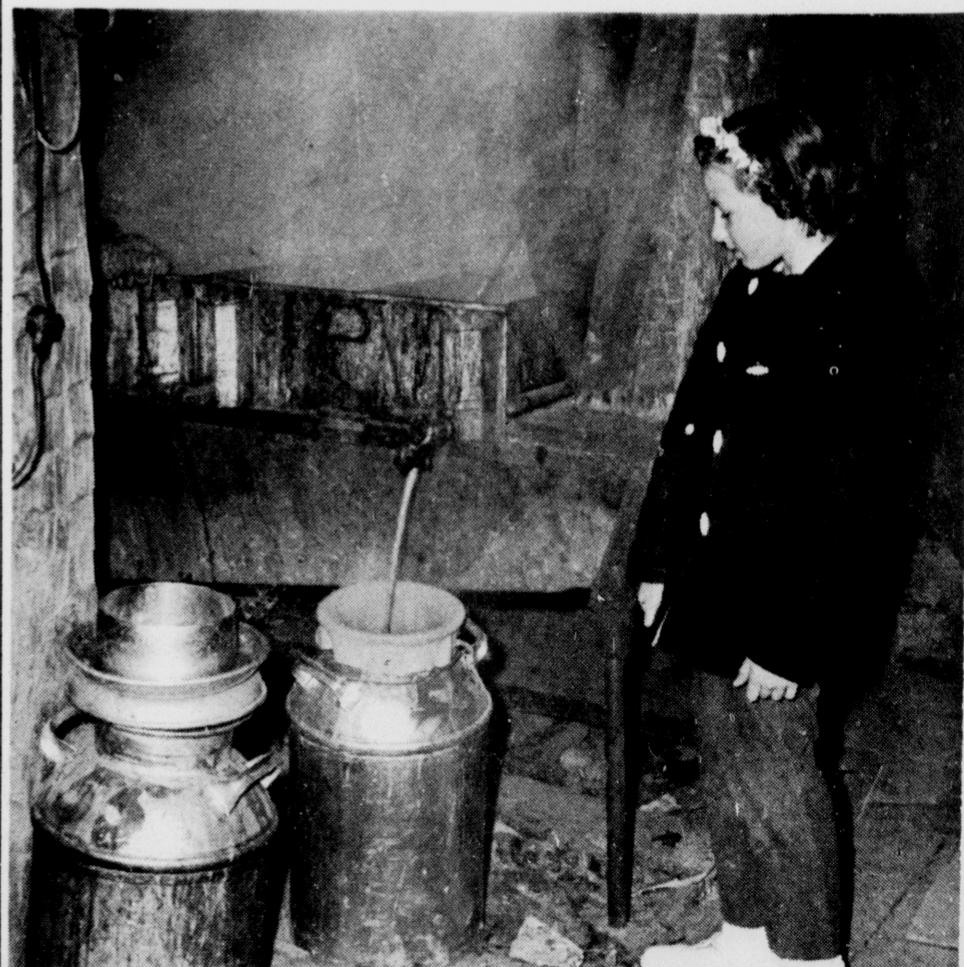

THE GRUBER YOUNGSTERS, Sandy, Linda and Judy (baby brother was taking a nap), were kind enough to dip us a cooling glass of sap as a refresher. We also enjoyed a taste of that nice hot maple syrup.

AT LAST the first batch has reached the maple syrup stage (a special thermometer is used in determining) and is now being strained into a container through a felt cloth. Judy stands by hoping she may be the first to take a sample. Later the syrup is canned and shipped off to market.

GOLF LEAGUE PLANS

Plans for the Warren County Industrial Golf league were discussed at a meeting last Tuesday and at least ten teams, and perhaps sixteen, will be entered. They will play either at Maplehurst or Kinzua on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

This year they will use match play, with five men to a team and all points counting in the standings. Handicaps will be adjusted after five weeks of play.

The entry fee probably will be $15 or $20 per team. No substitutes will be allowed, and absenteeism will cost a man's team a point. Matches will start no later than 6:15.

Ted Manakas was elected president, Bob Hedberg, secretary-treasurer, and George Eberhardt, statistician.

The next meeting will be held in the YMCA, April 8, at 7:30.

RAY'S WIN TOURNAMENT

Ray's Confectionery dumped Struthers Hose, 76 to 49, to win the third annual YMCA County Basketball Tournament and claim the Don Lundquist Memorial trophy last Thursday night.

Ray's, a team composed of Warren High School cagers, led by only two at halftime but had little trouble with the Y League champions in the second half.

Top men for the tournament champions were Bill Mervine with 16 and Don McKelvy and Mike Cashman with 14. Jeff Homan hooped 18 and John Berdine added 16 for Struthers Hose.

Ray's clipped Guiffres, 67 to 63, and shaded Greenes, 61 to 59, to reach the tournament finale.

Members of the championship team were Bill Brumagin, Mike Cashman, Nicky Creola, Joey Massa, Don McKelvy, Bill Mervine, Nick Monroe, Mark Peterson and Dick White.

BASEBALL TEAM PROBABLY

Warren may be represented in an inter-city baseball loop now in the planning stages. Diz Hines, manager of last season's Elks team, attended an organizational meeting of an inter-city baseball loop in Jamestown and is attempting to form a Warren team to enter the loop. Home games of the team would probably be played on the State Hospital diamond.

Seven teams have shown a desire to enter the circuit. Besides the Warren entry, they are the Ludlow Wildcats, Koch's Brewery of Dunkirk, and Starlite Cafe, Marvin-Rockwell, the Moose Club and Art Metal of Jamestown.

DRAGON RIFLERS SHOOT WELL

Warren Dragon riflemen placed fifth in a 34-team rifle match held in Bradford recently. The Dragon Rifle team took fifth place with a score of 1407, only one point out of fourth place. In the team match Paul Mahaffy was first for Warren firing a 377 out of 400, Bruce Hook was second scoring a 367 followed by Jim Jenkins 336, and Roger Thoma 324.

In individual competition, Paul Mahaffy of Warren captured eighth place out of the 150 competitors with a score of 367. Bruce Hook hit 360 and Jim Jenkins scored 348.

FANS TO FOLLOW BOXER

Warren boxing fans will travel to Erie by chartered bus and private car next Saturday night, March 29, to see Tom Gerarde tangle with Vic Salle, Pierpont, Ohio, on an amateur boxing card presented by the Erie Police Athletic League in Gannon Auditorium. Gerarde, a Golden Glove light heavyweight champion, owns a decision over the 6 foot 3 inch Ohio fighter in their only previous meeting.

AWARD WINNERS NAMED

Fourteen players and the two teams in the championship game were awarded trophies at the conclusion of the third annual YMCA County Basketball Tournament last Thursday night by tourney officials.

Ray's Confectionery received a trophy for winning the tournament crown and will be the first team to have its name inscribed on the Don Lundquist Memorial Trophy which will be placed in the Warren YMCA. Struthers Hose was given a trophy as the second place team.

Jeff Homan, Struthers Hose, was named the tournament's most valuable player and a teammate, Bob Hartnett, was voted the tourney's outstanding defensive performer. Both received trophies.

Mike Steffan, Sheffield's Sportsmen's Restaurant, was awarded a trophy as the outstanding old player and Mike Cashman, Ray's Confectionery, received the tournament ball as the outstanding young player in the games.

All tournament player trophies were presented to Mike Cashman, Nicky Creola and Nick Monroe, Ray's; Steve Lindquist and Chuck Reese, Greenes; Dave Berdine and Bob Wolfe, K. of C.; Dick Wilson, Ramblers; Barry Drexler, Sheffield's Sportsmen's Restaurant; and Dick Wasson, Sheffield Independents.

STYLERS WIN TOURNEY GAME

The Warren Style Shop downed McMahon's of Dunkirk, 69 to 59, in an opening round game of the Jamestown YMCA Centennial Basketball tournament last Monday night. The Warren five led most of the way.

Top scorers for the Style Shop were Dave Berdine, 23, Hud Berdine, 19, and Ed Lindberg, 14.

The Warren five's next tournament game will be at the Jamestown Y court Saturday night at 7 p.m.

The 27-team tournament will run for ten nights with the championship game carded for Saturday, April 5.

PLANS for the Warren County Industrial Golf League's season were made by these golfers at an organizational meeting of the loop at the YMCA last Tuesday.

Committees chosen during the session were George Larson, Danny Lord, and Walt Confer, rules committee; Jim McCool, John Smith and Dale Bean, greens committee; and Paul Rosequist, Chink Collins and Robert Jensen, tournament committee.

The group will meet again in the YMCA Tuesday, April 8, at 7:30 p.m. to make further plans for the league season.

STYLE SHOP EVENS SERIES

With scheduling difficulties caused by post season tournaments ironed out, the Style Shop and the Newhouse Coke quintet of Jamestown resumed their post season playoff series on the Armory floor last Sunday and the Warren five clobbered the Jamestown cagers, 108 to 69. Warren's win evened the series at one victory for each team.

Leading the way for the Style Shop were Dick Wasson with 20 and Dave Berdine with 18.

No date has been set for the third game to be played at the Warren armory.

CHURCH LEAGUE - SENIORS

First Baptists racked up an early lead and held on to it to down St. Joseph's, 63 to 60, and win the second half crown of the Senior division of the Church basketball league last Thursday night. Jack Colvin led the Baptists with 22 and Joe Castagnino was high for St. Joseph's with 18.

In other games, First Presbyterian upset Grace Methodist #2, 47 to 41. Larry Lawton paced the winners with 21 and Dick Kyler hooped 15 for Grace. In the only other game, First Methodist nipped Grace Methodist #1.

The three games marked the end of regular season play in the league.

Final league standings based on games reported show First Baptist, 9 and 1; Grace Methodist #1, 4 and 4; Grace Methodist #2, 4 and 4; St. Joseph's, 2 and 2; First Methodist, 2 and 5; and First Presbyterian, 2 and 7.

In semi-final games in the west, Vincent tripped Punxsutawney, District 9, 67 to 50, and Altoona shaded Charleroi, District 7, 49 to 47. In the eastern semi-final, Haverford bumped Williamsport, Section 4, 64 to 55.

Co-star in Drama

ALEXIS SMITH and CRAIG STEVENS, real life husband and wife, will co-star in the Schlitz Playhouse presentation, "I Shot a Prowler," Friday night, March 28, at 9:30 over WBEN-TV.

In this scene from the drama she is comforted by her husband after a terrifying experience with an intruder.

NYET!

In Poland, in Hungary, in Czechoslovakia, in all the other oppressed lands of Eastern Europe, the government has only one thing to say to those who want to hear or see or read the truth: "NYET!" . . . or "NO!"

You must help with your dollars or freedom will be crushed in these countries. Your dollars keep Radio Free Europe on the air, keep its 29 super-powered transmitters at work, overpowering "jamming" from Red stations, slashing through Red lies, renewing hope that freedom will some day return behind the Iron Curtain. Why must you give? Because Radio Free Europe is a private organization, supported by the American people. Your dollars pay for its transmitter tubes, equipment, announcers, news analysts. Keep your dollars coming or the truth will be cut off!

Television and Radio

By John Crosby

NAIVE AND ENNOBLING

With the considerable assistance of Richard Wagner and Giacomo Puccini, Leonard Bernstein contributed one of the most memorable television programs of the year Sunday on "Omnibus." Bernstein, who has previously delighted a vast audience with his essays on Beethoven, musical comedy, Bach, modern music, and jazz, this time tackled opera and by shrewdly selecting the most popular, the most widely known, the most unabashedly widely known, the most unabashedly emotional passages, he managed to reduce me (and probably millions of others) to a quivering jelly.

It was quite an hour-and-a-half. Bernstein, pounding the keyboard of a piano, conducting the Metropolitan orchestra, explaining, wheedling, singing, acting, seemed to enjoy himself hugely and to carry his audience right along with him. Right at the outset Alistair Cooke declared winningly: "If you don't like opera, you're in distinguished company"--and named Lord Chesterfield, Charles Lamb and Mark Twain as among those who couldn't abide it.

However, if anyone can win over the unbelievers, it's Leonard Bernstein who has the exuberant enthusiasm that marks all great teachers. "What makes opera grand?" asked Bernstein and he spent the hour-and-a-half answering his own question. In the first place, he pointed out that music was both more powerful and more direct than simple

is there for a tenor to say 'I love you' than to step to the footlights and sing it," said Bernstein.

To drive home the point, Ramon Vinay and Martha Moeld sang the most thrilling of all love duets from "Tristan and Isolde." "That's about as passionate as you can get within the limits of decency," commented Bernstein. To elaborate his thesis that emotion expanded to outside proportions when told in music, Bernstein, assisted by some Metropolitan singers, demonstrated jealousy set to music from the last act of "Carmen," hope from the last act of "Faust," despair from the end of the clock scene of "Boris Goudonov."

"Opera is big--bigger than spoken drama, bigger than life," commented Bernstein in introducing his main act of the afternoon. This was the entire third act of "La Boheme." First, scene by scene, it was

MORE HONORS

Treat Davidson, of Warren, whose photography has earned him numerous honors, has several pictures in the April issue of the National Geographic. These are the famous jumping trout, pictures which require special equipment and hours of patience, for which Mr. Davidson is very noted.

Because he is extremely quiet and modest about his photographic accomplishments few in this area are aware that he has earned many national and international honors for his camera work. However, his fame is well known in those circles where ability with the lens is required and often special requests come his way for unusual pictures that he might have in his collection. So many of us enjoy taking pictures and gain much pleasure from looking through our collections, but so few of us apply the minimum of time and thought necessary to make the results better than average. We give so little patience to moving into a position that will provide good background, and we will snap the picture hastily without thought or patience for the time required to allow a cloud to move into position behind our subject.

We work clear of what we consider interfering objects, when the tip of a limb, a bit of leaf, or part of a fence or building might add to the frame work of our picture. We seem to forget that what we see will comprise the picture and not just the subject on which we are concentrating.

In short, we give little or no effort to considering the composition of our work, yet stand in awe when we see the delightful prints that come from the camera of a very few. The honors received by such men as Mr. Davidson should serve as an inspiration to those who might find much satisfaction in adding a professional touch to their very amateur efforts.

COLOR PICTURES

Now is not the time to put your color film away, even though the drab and colorless hills do not serve to encourage those who like their pictures real. To do a complete series of this area, you must include March, and you may be surprised at the variety it offers.

It lacks the fire of fall, the contrasts of early spring, the deep greens and shadows of summer, or the bright whites of winter. But on a really bright day, and especially at the right hours, you will find startling contrasts that can be brought into sharp focus.

For example, the late evening will provide nut brown hills bathed in setting sunlight while the valley is dark with shadow. If that brown hill is backdropped by clear blue, touched with bits of fleece, you have a March picture of great beauty, and with a familiar landmark.

You also will find much snow remaining in the hills, and these banks of white, stretches of brown, and spreads of shimmering whites can give you interlacing combinations, often touched by rows of sharp tree shadows, that provide exceptional possibilities.

Every season has something to offer for those with imagination and for those who will scout their subjects, figure their lighting, and be there at the right time. All of it takes you into the open, the fresh air, and what is your hurry?

You are holding life in your view-finder. Don't rush it!

NICE QUIET SPORT

Bowling, which has been smoothed up by the invasion of our ladies, and which now plays to millions on TV in a quiet gentlemanly way, has been known to erupt. Though there is no physical contact in the sport and there is nothing you can do to affect your opponent's play except unnerve him with a biting tongue, there now has been placed on the record a bit of proof that some take it seriously enough to lay physical siege to their opposition.

The American Bowling Congress, which rules and promotes the game, has suspended three bowlers from membership for using weapons other than their balls and targets other than those ten reluctant pins. It seems they lost their heads and came up with hits that were far from "taps".

Peter J. Trynasty, a celebrated Seattle kegler, proved an exception to our preceding statement by actually using his ball, but he pushed it into another's face, breaking his cheek bone. We have seen some loud-mouthed fellows who mentally received similar treatment at our hands on numerous occasions. Trynasty did not waste time on dreams. He balled him!

The other two double-teamed a man who wouldn't fight. Ira C. Wollard allegedly shoved another bowler, but the man walked away. This infuriated Mr. Wollard and he sicked his son, Gary, on the dissident opponent. Gary knocked the man down, and the elder Wollard broke off a couple bottles and thus armed moved in to apply the coup de grace. He was restrained.

Temper, temper! And too bad, because the ABC has found it necessary to suspend only about one bowler in every 6,500 in the many years of its existence. And most of them were penalized for walking off with funds or falsifying league averages.

Today there are about 556 men under suspension from ABC membership. Many of these suspensions date back twenty years. This is low when you learn that there are about two and one half million men bowling under ABC sanction.

OUTDOORS

NEARLY TIME

Those who have been yearning to stretch those legs since the winter's isolation developed into a bore, soon will have several incentives to rise from their overstuffed roosts and take to the hills and valleys. Some will go no further than the nearest ball park and sit down again. But many thousands will take a shaft in hand and exert several healthy ounces of energy.

This shaft may be a golf club, a tennis racquet, a bow, a rifle, or it may be long and slender, with beautiful balance, and accessories that will provide the best results when real skill is shown by the man or lady in charge. This, of course, is a fishing rod.

The trout can be fooled into biting your lure or worm with no illegal repercussions on April 15. And there will be over two million of them added to the streams to assure much nibbling of the hook and a major share of good eating in Pennsylvania kitchens.

About 200 miles of streams have been added to the stocking list, which makes the total approximately 4,600 miles. Along this will trudge the whipper of lines in his quest for legal brooks, browns, and rainbows. Of these 200,000 were stocked in lakes last fall to save the cost of feeding. Another two million were held in hatcheries for this season's stocking.

Add to these totals about 150,000 big trout, costly to feed, which were placed directly in the streams between seasons. And there will be a large percentage of trout yearlings spawned in the 1956-57 winter.

This variety of sources is due to the shortage of funds which hampered the stocking program previous to the raise in the license fee. The fee this year is $3.25, which will provide a bit more cash for the Commission and should result in an expanded stocking service.

VAGABOND TROUT

There was a rainbow 'round his shoulders and he sure was covering water. He was a rainbow trout, tagged and planted in crooked creek, Erie county, last spring. He was pulled from the water in the Niagara river at Lewiston, ten miles from Lake Ontario.

To get there the rainbow swam down Crooked creek into Lake Erie. He then entered the Niagara and shot the falls without benefit of a barrel. Two boys pulled him from the stream. He was exhausted and nearly dead.

This is not a new experience. Tagging fish has made it possible to trace their meanderings, which often take them to many points along Lake Erie and into the Province of Ontario.

The longest distance reported was five hundred miles, toured by a smallmouth bass whose effort to find richer worms in other pools led him from Crooked Creek reservoir in Armstrong county to New Albany, Indiana, in the Ohio river where he proved a sucker and bit on a fisherman's lure. He had wiggled his way for 500 miles in 72 days and probably was too hungry and tired to care.

THE OBSERVER

A WARDEN'S HOURS

A fish warden in Pennsylvania spends less than half his time seeking the small ones that didn't get away. Of the 143,153 hours spent by fifty men last year, 61,287 hours were used for spotting violators.

Special duties consumed 35,153 hours, which included everything from helping the engineers and biologists to assisting the state police and game protectors. They also spent 20,160 hours on reports, 9,253 planting fish, 7,864 in special investigations, ranging from pollution to farm ponds, and they used some additional hours salvaging fish, making a creel census, surveying streams, and teaching conservation.

SO, WANTA JOB?

Switching to the game protector field of endeavor, we note that a class of twenty-five will enter the Ross Leffler School of Conservation on July 1 and will complete their studies on April 1, 1959. If you are interested, May 1 is the final date for applications.

A competitive examination will be held May 10 in Harrisburg to decide who enters the class. Principal requirements include: age, 21 to 35 years; height, not less than 5 feet 8 inches; weight, not less than 140 pounds; high school education or approved equal; bona-fide resident of Pennsylvania.

have piled up several closely related records which are encouraging. Fourteen people were fatally shot, which is too many for any sport, but is a new low for hunting in this state. The best previous figure was the 19 total of 1950.

The figure is much better than any previous year when considered on a percentage basis. In 1950 the hunters numbered 834,000. This year there must have been close to a million.

As usual all of the deaths could have been avoided. Causes included lack of training, ignorance of common sense rules, uncontrolled激动, greed for game, and failure to wear bright clothing.
